

Our Approach to Building

Author : Ryan

Date : May 4, 2013

As I write this post, Richard and Kelly Green are at work in Haiti on our final reconstruction project, as well, Brad Foltz and Doug Webber are working in Honduras on the Honduras 100 project. Their work involves construction, but their purpose goes way beyond brick and mortar!

At Builders International, we approach Building from this perspective:

1. Building...As a *Catalyst – construction brings activity and synergy to a community.

2. Building...As a *Partnership – our fellowship is growing at a rate of a new church planted every 45 minutes around the world, it is our pleasure to partner with this international growing body to build facilities necessary to support this growth.
3. Building...As a *Strategy – we build purposeful projects that matter, focusing our efforts on Regional Impact and Target Projects.
4. Building...As a *Ministry - we view people more important than projects, in and through the construction process we consider our work ministry.

Recent church completed in Honduras by Brad Foltz as part of the Honduras 100 Project, partnering local growing congregations to build the facilities they need to impact a community.